Privacy Statement

Edinbreak Hospitality Ltd understands that customers care about the use and storage of their personal information and data and we value your trust in allowing us to do this in a careful and sensible manner.

This Privacy Statement explains how we treat your data, what to do if you have any queries relating to data processing, and how to exercise any data protection rights in accordance with the GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation), the DPA (Data Protection Act) & PECR (Privacy and Electronic Communications Regulations)

Data Controller and Data Processors

The Data Controller is Edinbreak Hospitality Ltd. The Data Processors are the Company officials of the Data Controller, or its appointed sub-contractors who may process data in accordance with the instructions of the Data Controller and in accordance with the duty of confidentiality applicable to them.

If you would like any further information concerning the specific Data Processors who have or will be handling your data, please contact the Data Protection Officer.

Your Rights

You may exercise any of the rights provided for under the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) as follows;

You have the right to access your data held by the Company in order inter alia to rectify any inaccuracies. You have the right to require the cancellation of any data, unless and insofar as the retention of that data is mandatory under the law applicable to the Company.

Should you wish to cancel a booking, you have the right to request / receive any data processed during the course of our business with you that has not yet been deleted or anonymised.

You have the right to ask us what data we hold in relation to you. You have the right to receive a prompt response to any access request and will not be charged for any such request. If any such request is refused, you will be informed of the reasons and have the right to complain to a supervisory authority.

For the purposes of the General Data Protection Regulation & the Data Protection Act (1998), the controller of all information collected on this website is: Edinbreak Hospitality Ltd, 35 Palmerston Place, EH12 5AU

If you wish to view, delete or amend any of the information we hold on you, this can be done by contacting us in writing at the address provided above.

We will not disclose your data to anybody other than for the purpose of providing our services to you, and will not even confirm or deny the existence of a business relationship with you, unless you consent or unless we are required to do so by law or by law enforcement authorities.

We shall provide you with any data we hold concerning you in the manner requested by you, provided that the request is reasonable.

Your Data

The Company is unable to provide services without receiving your personal data. We will therefore process your data in order to fulfil our contractual obligations towards you, or as part of any pre-contractual acts carried out with a view to entering into a business relationship.

As the processing of personal data is an inherent aspect of the Company's services, the act of transmitting to the Company any data will be construed as consent to the processing of that data in the manner in accordance with this Privacy Statement. This will involve processing on the Company premises by Company officials, although may also entail its transmission to other external parties. Such external parties are subject to a duty of confidentiality regarding any such data provided to them and are obliged to report to the Company any breaches of data security or integrity.

Any person under the age of 16 must ask a parent or guardian to submit data on their behalf.

Your data will not under any circumstances be used for marketing purposes. We will not contact you by newsletter or circular email. We will not under any circumstances sell, transfer or otherwise make available your data to any external organisation other than for the purposes of providing the services commissioned by you.

Financial data concerning the business relationship between us may be disclosed to the Company's accountants for strictly accounting purposes and, if required by law, to the tax authorities.

You have the right to withdraw your consent to data processing at any time. If you do so, you may obtain the deletion of all data concerning you held by the Company, subject to the payment of any services you have already commissioned from the Company.

What types of data we collect

We collect only data that is necessary in order to establish, manage and conclude an actual or potential contractual relationship between us. As a matter of principle, we shall retain and use only data that are expressly provided to us by you (such as your email address, telephone number, website, postal address). If we require any additional data we shall ask you for it or attempt to obtain it from publicly available sources, such as for instance the website you made your booking through.

Any data submitted through our online contact form will be retained for a reasonable period of time, until it is clear that you do not intend to acquire services from us (in which case the data will be deleted), or until deletion in the ordinary manner following the establishment of a business relationship.

If you default on payment of an invoice, your data may be passed to a third party to the extent and insofar as necessary in order to secure the enforcement of your contractual obligations.

Merchant Services

We are PCI compliant with Worldpay and if you wish to view our Information Security Policy document for information on how Card Holder Data is stored, please write to the Data Controller Office at 35 Palmerston Place, Edinburgh, EH12 5AU.

Data Retention

We shall retain your data for a reasonable period after the service has been completed. We are also required to retain basic information relating to the transaction between us for tax purposes (e.g. bank statements, invoices, credit card slips etc.) for the statutory retention periods.

If you would like your data to be deleted, whether in full or in part, please let us know. Unless we are under a statutory obligation to retain any of your personal data, your request will be acted upon as quickly as possible, and we shall provide confirmation once it has been done.

Unless you specify otherwise, your data will be retained for as long as is legally necessary or in accordance with the purpose for which they were processed, after which they will either be deleted or anonymised. If there is no evident service-related reason to retain your data, your data will be cancelled or anonymised once their retention is no longer necessary for the purposes for which the personal data were processed. The Company will carry out periodical checks in order to ensure that this principle is complied with. The Company will also carry out periodical assessments of the arrangements in place to protect against data loss, and its planning will ensure the ability to restore all data even in the event of large-scale data corruption.
